
Dear Chesssoc,
That was the best email i've ever received! ... I apologise for never attending a meeting ever. ...
Good luck with EXTREME chess.

i wish i could swim!

brilliant movies !!
thanks for a right good laugh"

Dear Chesssoc e-mail,
I like your e-mails - they're amusing. I can't say I have any intention of actually playing chess this year, but I plan to continue enjoying your e-mails.
Yours pointlessly,

dear the chess club, i joined this club for a bit of entertainment and meet women especially, i turned up 1 day and there was only 3 there so i left i wish 2 unsubscribe as it clashes with my soccer trainings, u seem decent people, maybe next year i will join ! thanks

Haha!!everyone should join the chess soc even if it's just for the emailz!!!!they're brill!!!:)

Fucking loved it,
Fair play

Are you still having regular chess meets?
Appreciate the emails, as head of writers soc back in the beyond I used to abuse/fully gainfully employ the power privilege of the pulpit myself. Great when someone really puts their back into it.

Those emails are hilarious. I'm stuck on placement for the summer so I probably wont be going to many events what with me living the other side of the country but I'd like to keep getting the emails for something to read at work... I've almost finished the internet...

I weep for Rodin, Michelangelo and MS paint.....
On a more serious note, you cannot take these e mails away from me as I can't afford to lose another connection with the outside world: it's paramount. Insane as it may sound they are keeping me ticking over, counting down the days until I am back in Galway.

I'd quite like to be on the mailing list still. I dont read them all the time, but they are fun.
I also like having something with a decent length to read when I forget my copy of War and Peace :-) ehm...this email kind of made my day, i thought you should know..

Haven't laughed so much since I set foot on Ireland.
See you tomorrow!

Dear ChessSoc contact. You're emails tone my abs

Heh, i lol'd. Nice triple entendre at the start, or is it a metaphor with double entendre on the side? Who knows! Who cares! More of the same for the next email.
Kisses!
Love,
A deliriously tired and over-worked Louis Vuitton employee

kudos on this and the last few emails man. entertaining as ever. and i dont give compliments too easy :)

... I know I haven't come, trust me I'm more disappointed in me than you are! Although, I have been reading your emails, which I must say I've really enjoyed.

... I really must come along if only to put a face to these emails. :)

Thanks for the email,

I actually felt like I had to reply... this email is such a tangent! And fucking hilarious!

Well done :)

Bravo, rather entertaining. The lab think I'm odd now coz I snorted with laughter. You should write professionally with lines like that. Id totally buy your book. I'm somewhat glad I STILL won't be in the counrty on March 23rd, since I'm a bit of a sucker for getting involved in these types of committees :/

I want that email on a t-shirt

You've been reading too much Flann O'Brien. I really think so. It's just not quite grotesque enough...

I lold... ^.^

Wow, you used part of a society email to rant about how one email service provider is better than another email service provider? That's like half a step away from an OS debate. Join Compsoc already. We've got chess on computers now don't cha know! ^_^

If anyone is starting in NUIG next year and does not sign up for the Chess emails, they are wasting their time
